Workshop on the Capital Improvement and Investment Plan:

Mr. Fulghum noted that they were there to discuss the Capital Improvement and Investment Plan. He mentioned that this was an effort that the County started in 2022. He noted it came on the heels of them realizing that they manage internally a lot of the facility improvements and construction projects that they had in front of them. He said prior to solicit setting and selecting a firm to be their construction manner manager that county staff handled the projects. They went through project management for each project with each division director or department head applicable to the project. He noted that since things were more complex with the grant proposal paperwork, restrictions and requirements it was so much more stringent than in the past. He noted that currently that the construction world was so much different, and they had been encountering a lot of change orders. They researched and reviewed the different types of deliveries for facility projects and landed on construction management at risk. He said they solicited proposals and ended up hiring M. B. Kahn, who currently serves as the County's Construction Manager.

Mr. Fulghum introduced Chris Hance of M.B. Kahn who was present. He noted that Mr. Hance worked with the county staff developing the projects and priorities along with Jim Iwanicki who serves as the County's Engineer and Director of Engineering Services Department. Mr. Fulghum noted that he would like Council to hear from Chris for A review of the county successes to date and then look at the most immediate needs that the county has. He noted that this would give them priority guidance from the council and that then they would talk about financing and how they had finance projects to date. He also noted they would discuss what type of financing was available for the different projects going forward and whether they need to work with a consolidated effort to do a borrowing plan to do more projects at one time. Chris reviewed his presentation on the capital improvements and investment plan update for fiscal year 2025 he covered an introduction, plan development, project summary of every project evaluated and budgeted for the current fiscal year.
